

Abstract of the Disclosure

This invention (laptop stand) is intended to solve the problem of laptop computers being moved or stolen. This invention is easy to use with a simple locking mechanism. This invention is adjustable in width so that many different sizes of laptop computers may be mounted or secured. This invention will allow the computer to be mounted / secured while in use.